Scenario 6

In this data the weight of plants is measured for a number of days, on several different growing conditions. Each variable represents a day of values. The "cl" variable describes the growing condition. There might be missing values, non-normal distributions, and outliers in the data.

Your primary job is to summarize differences in the growth of the plants in the different environments.