Scenario 5

In this data the weight of cute little puppies is measured for a number of days, on several different diets. Each variable represents a day of values, and these have been standardized. The "cl" variable describes the type of diet that was given to the puppies. There might be missing values, non-normal distributions, and outliers in the data.

Your primary job is to summarize differences in the growth of the puppies on different diets.